

STILL MAKING HISTORY.

Conclusion

Which was your favorite artifact?

What is one thing you learned?

As you can see, each artifact tells a story and plays a part in history. But for each artifact to be in the exhibit, someone had to decide it was important enough to save. Then someone had to decide it was important enough to donate to the Museum of Boulder. Then we had to decide it was important enough to put in the exhibit. We often think that history is something in a textbook that stays the same, but really history is a story that can change depending on who is telling it.

Thank you again for using this curriculum! Got any feedback? Go to tinyurl.com/artifactsalive to share it. We'd love to see photos of you doing the activities. Post a pic and tag us @MuseumOfBoulder!