TODAY'S ARROW — Black Arts,

DU hosts Black arts festival tonight

Denver - area Black musicians and performers will be featured at a Black Arts Festival at 7:30 p.m. today at the University of Denver.

The Black Arts Festival will culminate University of Denver student efforts to aid needy residents of Sunflower County, Miss. A City-wide clothing drive was held in conjunction with the festival. A portion of the festival proceeds will be donated to the Sunflower County fund.

Included in the festival will be a wide variety of performing arts — from an Afro-Drum Ensemble to the Colorado premiere of Ben Caldwell's contemporary one-act drama, "The Militant Preacher."

Vocal performances, poetry readings, native dances, instrumental selections and a movie of the Black experience in America, "Just Like Me" will also be a part of the festival.

Art, clothing and books will be displayed in the General Classroom Building lobby prior to the festival.

Sponsored by the DU chapter of Theta Chi national social fraternity, the festival is open to the public and will be held in the DU General Classroom Building Auditorium, 2040 S. Race St.

Tickets are $1 and may be purchased at the door.
